

VERTICAL HOUSE

Location: Dallas, TX
Size: 8,000 sq ft

Characterized by clean lines, sheer glass walls, and sculptural sun shades, this sharply-detailed house offers an intriguing counterpoint to the tropical ambiance of its forest-like setting.

Starting at the lowest level, two 60-foot-tall exterior screen walls surge upward on both sides of the house, providing the home's primary structural support as well as offering shade and privacy to spaces within.

Moving vertically through the house from the entrance, every major space is immediately accessible from a glass-enclosed stairwell. Views outward become ever more impressive as the ground below falls away, and a palpable sense of suspension takes hold. The progression terminates at an inviting open-air roof terrace, which offers breathtaking 360-degree views.
